Appreciated Letter Received by Mr. and Mrs. H. Zak

Officer's Wife Visited Joe Zak in English Hospital; Husband Had Given Latter First Aid Treatment in Italy

Some letters can contain much comfort and encouragement to their recipients in time of stress. Such a letter has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zak from an English officer's wife in Britain whose husband gave Joe first aid soon after receiving serious injury in the Sicilian campaign and who wrote his wife to visit Joe when he was hospitalized in Britain should the latter be within reasonable distance from their home.

Following is the letter:

Dear Mr. Zak:

I feel I must write to tell you about your son Joe. This is how I came to know him:

My husband, Sgt. Ellenwood, is in the same regiment as Joe. When Joe was wounded at Regalabuto my husband bound him up and left him comfortable until the medical service could attend to him. My husband wrote to me about Joe saying that Joe had tremendous courage and smiled all the time even though he was so very badly wounded. He told me that Joe would be coming back to England.

Strangely enough Joe was sent to a hospital not very far from my home. I went out to the hospital and enquired about him and then went and made myself known to him. Since then my baby son Richard and I have been to see Joe many times. He told me today that they were being moved sometime soon and likely I wouldn't see them again so he gave me his home address and said that he would write me as soon as he got back.

Mr. Zak, Joe is a real brave lad and I'm proud to know him. Each time I have been to see him he has been full of fun and so cheery. His arm is still in plaster but I think it is getting along very well. I am so thankful they managed to save his arm because I personally think it is far worse to lose an arm than a leg.

I shall miss seeing him very much indeed but I know how glad you will be to have Joe home and how pleased Joe is to be going back to Canada.

My husband was wounded soon after Joe was hurt but he hasn't come back to England. At one time I had hoped that he would be coming back but I do not think he will now as he has gone to a convalescent camp out there. He had a fractured left hand and a shrapnel wound in his right arm, both of which had to be opened whilst he was in Sicily. My husband was awarded the Military Medal for distinguished service in the field. As you will realize I feel very proud of him and in my heart a little frightened for his safety when he goes back to the front lines once more.

Please don't forget to tell Joe that I would enjoy having a letter from him when he gets back. I hope you will be able to have Christmas together. Yours sincerely, (Mrs.) Mary Ellenwood.

SEVERAL CASES OF FLU REPORTED

It would appear that flu is on the increase locally. Constable Antle was confined to his home on Tuesday. Principal Hoyle, Miss Janostak and Mr. J. Cousins, of the school staff, have missed one or more days during the week. In addition a number of adults and youngsters have been confined to their homes with mild attacks of influenza.

Skating Arena Now Ready For Winter Weather

Curling Arena Still in Need of Repairs; Much Damage Done by Younsters; Caretaker Now Job

Roof repairs to the skating rink are almost completed with the exception of a small portion on the east end. Wiring has been repaired and light bulbs installed. The dressing rooms have been cleaned out and heaters repaired. The caretaker is now busy making repairs to the sides of the arena where boards have been smashed by thoughtless youths.

In the curling arena hoods have been busy. There are approximately a dozen rocks chipped or broken. The electric wiring has been ripped out and bulbs smashed.

Sports' Association Vice-President Art. Fraser and his associates have had contractor J.A.C. D'Appolonia on the job the past few weeks and also their caretaker. He states the skating arena is now ready for the cold weather and that flooding is in progress each night. He remarked that due to the wreckage in the curling arena it will require a little more time to get it into shape.

One thing he would like done is to have the curlers get organized in order that the Association may determine whether two sheets of ice will be made or three sheets.

Stanley Widricki has been employed as caretaker and has been on the job since Nov. 1.

Treasurer Joe Emmerson is busy with the big job of filling out the membership cards and expects to have them distributed shortly.

TOUGH FIGHTING LEADS TO ALLIED TRIUMPH AT SALERNO

When the Fifth Army beached near Salerno, it held on to its precarious foothold in the face of severe opposition. In some of the toughest fighting of the Italian campaign it forced the Germans back, took the Town of Salerno and went on to fight through rough hill country towards the Plain of Naples. Naples has fallen to the Allies and the Fifth is still pushing northwards, Romeward. Picture shows On one of the beaches near Salerno, as Allied landing operations go forward.

Christmas Shopping Now Becoming Quite Brisk

Shoppers in Ever Increasing Numbers to Be Seen in Local Stores; Merchant with the Stock Gets the Business.

The Christmas shopping season is getting into full swing and local stores are becoming quite busy. During the past few weeks shoppers have been quietly looking over the various stocks and putting the odd present aside.

This week merchants report business quite good and an ever increasing number of shoppers are to be seen in the various stores.

One merchant remarked, "The store with the stock will get the business." The hardware and electrical stores are without stocks of irons, toasters, electrical coffee percolators, baggage, etc., but in the case of the former numerous other suitable gifts help to overcome the shortage.

The clothing stores, while short on some lines, appear to have good stocks and report business brisk.

The local drug store is well stocked on expensive china, as well as suitable gifts in leather goods, perfumes, cosmetics, etc.

Elks Give Gifts to Local Members of Armed Forces

Will Send Cigarettes and Small Hamper; To Sponsor Christmas Eve Dance for Local Charities

Still another present will be given every Coleman boy and girl in the armed forces regardless of whether they be based in the Dominion or are serving overseas. This gift will be given by the Coleman Elks lodge. Parcels going to those overseas will include 300 cigarettes along with a Swift's Christmas hamper. To those in Canada the parcel will contain 100 cigarettes and the Swift's hamper. The hamper will contain tinned meat, cheese, etc.

The boys will no doubt appreciate these gifts from local organizations.

The proceeds will be divided between the Chalmers Fund, to aid young Jimmy Chalmers now in a Toronto hospital, and other Elks' charities. It is going to be a big affair and many dance lovers throughout the Pass are expected to be in attendance.

Arrangements are also being made at the present time for the kiddies matinee which is an annual Christmas affair. Fruit and candy are hard to secure but the kiddies can be assured that the Brothel Bills will have something good for them.

A Bond Of Empire

THE STABILITY OF THE STRUCTURE of the British Empire has been a subject of discussion and conjecture among certain groups for some time. These groups are made up largely of people not living within the Empire, and doubtless their views are influenced to some extent by wishful thinking. They have, nevertheless, received some publicity which has led to considerable thought and discussion on the subject. Events of the past four years have shown beyond doubt that the ties which join together the various parts of the Empire have never been stronger than they are today. The most recent assurance of this fact has come in the appointment of His Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester, the King's brother, as the Governor-General of the Commonwealth of Australia. This appointment is seen by many as an emphatic reply to those who have sought to show that there is disunity within the Empire, for it was made at the request of Prime Minister Curtin, the head of Australia's Labour government.

Duke Followed

Army Career

The Duke of Gloucester, who is forty-three years old, chose to follow a military career and studied at the cavalry school at Sandhurst after leaving school. He was appointed chief liaison officer to the British field forces shortly after the outbreak of the war, and he served in France and Belgium before the fall of those countries in 1940. He has since served as chief liaison officer to Home Forces Headquarters and in that capacity he is well known to many members of the Canadian Army. Although he has always been interested in his career in the army, he has not let it interfere with his public obligations as a member of the Royal Family. It is felt that in accepting the exacting post as Governor-General of Australia he is once again displaying his willingness to serve the Empire. The Duchess of Gloucester, who has been active in war work in Britain, and is honorary chief commandant of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force, is held in high esteem by the British people, and is said to be exceptionally well fitted to fill the role of châtelaine of Australia's Government House at Canberra.

Enthusiasm Is Shown By Press

It has been known for some time that the Australian public has favored the choice of one of their own people for the post of Governor-General. It is considered deeply significant, therefore, that the Labour government of Premier John Curtin, requested the appointment of a member of the British royal family at this time. The Australian press welcomed the announcement with enthusiasm and the Sydney Morning Herald carried an editorial on the subject which said, in part: "King George has honored Australia by designating his younger brother, the Duke of Gloucester, to represent him in the Commonwealth. For the first time a brother of the reigning King will become Governor-General of the Dominion and the significance of this development will not be lost upon the outside world." Prime Minister Churchill has said on more than one occasion that he did not intend to press over the disintegration of the British Empire, and events are bearing out the wisdom of his statement.

HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA COOKING VEGETABLES FOR VITAMIN PRESERVATION

We now know that the method of cooking vegetables is just as important as the choice, in obtaining a maximum amount of vitamins and minerals. Baking is the best method as the least amount of vitamins are lost. Boiling vegetables can be baked satisfactorily. But we can do practically all vegetables as they are in water, only the vitamins destroyed by heat (about 10%) are lost. If we boil the vegetables and throw the water away, as most of us do, vitamin C and members of the vitamin B complex are lost because they are water soluble. Most of us cook vegetables in too much water, but science tells us they need be just covered with water. In the case of leafy vegetables just the water that clings to the leaves after washing is necessary.

1. The leafy vegetables, chard, spinach, cabbage, broccoli and strong flavoured vegetables such as onions, turnips and Kohlrabi are cooked with a cover.

2. The other ones, beets, carrots, corn, parsnips, peas, potatoes, salsify, squash, string beans are cooked with a cover.

If you follow these few rules in cooking you will be getting the maximum food value from your vegetables.

1. Use raw vegetables.
2. Bake or steam them frequently.
3. Boil vegetables in skins if possible, in little water and only until they are done.
4. Wash, peel or cut vegetables just before cooking.
5. Use the cooking water for soups, sauces, etc.
6. Serve immediately.

A post card request to the Western Division Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto, will bring you a free copy of its authoritative Vitamin Chart.

Angel Falls, in Venezuela, drops about a mile, the greatest drop in the world.

Modest Millionaire

Wealthy Man Is British Who Gave Away Millions Of Dollars

To have been one of England's two wealthiest men and lived so quietly that comparatively few persons, either in Great Britain or outside of it, had ever heard of him, was the singular obscurity achieved by Joseph Rank, master miller, who died recently in his Victorian home, near London, aged 89.

Mr. Rank loathed publicity and his name seldom appeared in the newspapers. He was so genuinely modest and minimized his own importance, that only three lines appeared about him in the British Who's Who.

Yet he went about doing good by stealth and gave away millions of dollars during his lifetime. His fortune has been estimated at well over $100,000,000.—Hamilton Spectator.

Ancient Bible

Soldier Brings Home To Canada A Valuable Souvenir

A soldier home on leave has brought with him a 324-year-old Bible as one of the war's most unusual souvenirs. The huge leather-bound volume, nearly four inches thick, was hidden in the chimney of an old manor house in North Devon during England's civil war (1642-49), and the Bible lay forgotten for 300 years, until German bombers, at the height of their blitzing on England, uncovered its hiding place. The aged Bible, containing several thousand pages of fine, hand-type, is considered in a remarkable state of preservation. Its wood-cut illustrations and contents are as clear and legible as they were three centuries ago. Only part of two heavy brass clasps are missing—Charlottetown Guardian.

"I have been on this train seven years," said the conductor of a slowly moving train.

Passenger—"So that? Where did you get on?"

Husband—I have left instruction in my will that I am to be cremated.

Wife—Yes, just like you to go and leave ashes all over the place.

"Do you remember Mrs. Smith?"

"I can't say I do."

"You must remember her? She was the plainest girl in the village. But I forgot—that was after you left."

"Did you read about that fellow who beat his wife with a golf club?"

"No, how many strokes?"

First Doctor—I had an unusual case today.

Second Doctor—What was it? First Doctor—I attended a grass widow with hay fever.

Judge—one year and $50 fine. Prisoner's Lawyer—Your honor, I beg the sentence be reversed.

Judge—Very well. Fifty years and $1 fine.

"Father, how far is it between your ears?" asked a schoolgirl of her father.

"I think it is 7 1/2 inches," he answered.

"No, father, it is halfway around the block," she declared.

"I don't like eating hash in a restaurant, where you don't know what's in it."

"That's better than eating at home, where you do know."

I FOUND A "BETTER WAY" TO CORRECT MY CONSTIPATION!

• We mean harder work for most of us. It's certainly no time to be handicapped by that common type of constipation caused by lack of "bulk" in the diet. If you have that trouble, here's a simple, enjoyable remedy that so many people use to correct the cause—they eat ALL-BRAN regularly instead of resorting to harsh purgatives that give only temporary relief.

This delicious cereal—it's grand tasting in muffins, too—keeps thousands regular, naturally... stops their trouble "before it starts". Try this pleasant plan. Smallest War Factory

In An English Cottage, Elderly Couple Producing Munitions

Up a winding path, on the edge of the forest in one of the Home counties of England is hidden away one of Britain's smallest war factories.

In this cottage an elderly middle-class couple do an important job for the ministry of supply—they make gauges, accurate to a ten-thousandth of an inch for rifles, Brens, Stens and anti-tank guns.

Working as a partnership, on machinery much of which was invented by the craftsman himself, they have turned out 3,000 of the very essential gauges. The man, who is known simply as 'Mr. Smith', has been an inventor for nearly half a century. He built and designed a special miniture car for use by Prince Philip of Norway.

CANADIAN COARSE GRAINS MAY BE REQUIRED BY UNITED STATES IN SPRING TO FEED LIVESTOCK

OTTAWA.—Heavy United States imports of Canadian feed grains, 58,662,161 bushels of oats and 33,729,344 of barley were shipped from Canada, mostly to the United States. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimated recently that the Canadian supply of feed grain per animal unit available in Canada was .76 tons in the present crop year.

The United States position was outlined by the Canadian trade commissioner's office in New York in a review published in the weekly Commercial Intelligence Journal.

"Due to the smaller supply of feed concentrates in relation to livestock on the farms (in the United States), the rate of feed per animal will be lower in 1943-44 than in the previous year, and stocks of feed grains will be reduced," the review said.

"If a considerable part of the reserve stocks of feed grains and feed wheat now on hand is consumed before the close of the 1943-44 marketing year, feed disappearance may be as large per animal unit as the 1937-41 average of .75 tons."

"With disappearance of feed grains running at a high level through September this year, it seems likely that a larger than usual proportion of the total supply will be consumed during the first half of the marketing year. Consequently a shortage of feed supplies would become most serious during the spring and summer of 1944."

"As a result of droughts in the south and east and prospects for smaller supplies of feed available for shipping to areas of scarcity, it is expected that considerably less feed will be available per animal unit in some parts of the country than in the average for the past five years."

During the first 15 weeks of the crop year which began last Aug. 1, 19,055,329 bushels of oats and 13,069,539 of barley were sent to the United States from Canada. In 1942-43,

CONFISCATE ART OBJECTS

LONDON.—The Berlin radio broadcast a Rome dispatch saying that the Fascist republican government had decreed the confiscation of all art objects in Jewish possession in the part of Italy it controls. Jews were directed to register their art treasures before Dec. 5 or face "confiscation without compensation," the broadcast said.

MOVE FROM BERLIN

STOCKHOLM.—The German foreign and diplomatic corps have been moved from Berlin to Breslau, about 190 miles to the southeast and near the German-Polish border, because of the heavy air raids on the Nazi capital, the newspaper Svenska Dagbladet said.

TELLS HOW THE GERMANS HAVE PINNED ALL THEIR HOPES FOR AVOIDING A TOTAL DEFEAT

VANCOUVER.—Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, United Kingdom high commissioner to Canada, said that when the U-boat menace was the most anxious pre-occupation of our leaders. But that time seems to be, when the Germans began suffering on even a cautious estimate, passing setbacks in Russia they felt that if they could not gain outright victory they could prolong the war "until our people grew weary and demanded a compromise peace."

In an address prepared for delivery before the Canadian club here, Mr. MacDonald said the Germans pinned their hopes of avoiding total defeat:

1. On the submarine war, which they hoped would sink so many ships that the Allies would not be able to muster enough strength in Britain or North Africa to hurl a big offensive against Europe.

2. On diplomacy and propaganda which would provoke quarrels between Britain and America, or between the two democracies and Russia.

3. Other withdrawal of her armies from Russia and Italy to strong defensive positions around Germany and conquered countries from where the Allies could be worn down until they asked for a negotiated peace.

"Each of those German hopes have been recently defeated," Mr. MacDonald said.

"There have certainly been periods

when the U-boat menace was the most anxious pre-occupation of our leaders. But that time seems to be, when the Germans began suffering on even a cautious estimate, passing setbacks in Russia they felt that if they could not gain outright victory they could prolong the war "until our people grew weary and demanded a compromise peace."

The victory over the U-boats was won not only by sailors and aviators but also by scientists who fought from their laboratories, Mr. MacDonald said.

"Whenever the enemy invented a new device to make their U-boats more devilish, our scientists replied with an invention to disarm the device and render it comparatively harmless. . . . In the sea war, the land war and the air war alike our scientists are proving superior."

Surely there is comfort and hope for our unhappy civilization in the thought that in this crisis in human affairs the forces of good have been able to command the services of finer intellects than have the forces of evil."

The Moscow conference last month was a "crushing defeat to German hopes" of dividing the Allied nations by propaganda and diplomacy, Mr. MacDonald said.

"There have certainly been periods

FARM PRODUCTS MAY PROVE A GREAT FACTOR IN DEVELOPMENT OF RURAL INDUSTRY IN CANADA

OTTAWA.—Community co-operatives through which farmers will supply local plants with raw materials may be an important factor in the development of rural industry in Canada, two agricultural scientists told the House of Commons reconstruction committee.

Dr. W. H. Cook, director of applied biology, national research council, and Prof. W. D. McFarlane, department of chemistry, Macdonald college, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., discussed the possible development of rural industries making use of surplus crops and some residue products such as straw.

They agreed that farmers should be interested in such developments, which would ensure that raw materials would be supplied the plants continuously.

Dr. McFarlane said alcohol production might be attained in rural plants, although sometimes there might be a question for the excise department as to the consumption of some of the product.

The committee expects to hear evidence from Premiers A. S. MacMillan of Nova Scotia and J. B. McNair of New Brunswick. The reconstruction suggestions of Manitoba and Alberta already have been heard.

Dr. McFarlane said there was need of investigation of the costs of raw materials which might be used for making alcohol and other products in rural industry. This could be done by establishing a small distillery in a local area with the assistance of farmers who might have money in the project.

Dr. Cook said about two gallons of alcohol could be obtained from a bushel of wheat. The conversion costs, including labor, fuel, capital charges and overhead, would differ in various parts of Canada.

If coal, water and labor costs were counted in it would perhaps be possible in some areas to produce alcohol for from 13 to 14 cents a gallon, to which have to be added distribution and other expenses. In general, a distillery would do well if it kept the conversion cost to 18 cents a gallon, while other expenses would have to be added.

Dr. McFarlane said western Canada in particular would benefit greatly from the development of rural industries so that farm products would leave the community in a processed or semi-processed state. The utilization of straw, which might be used for building materials, fuel, cigarette papers and other purposes, should be an early subject of study.

The burning of straw piles represented a "terrible waste," said Dr. Cook.

Dr. McFarlane said that if a research institute on agriculture were established the location was not vital, but other things being equal it should be near the area where raw materials were produced.

If research were concentrated in the prairie provinces it should not be divorced from the universities there and should work close to them.

Dr. Cook said the difficulty in using western straw was in gathering it to one central point for processing. A solution might be rural industries, and the use of straw for insulation and fuel. Development of a binder process to make straw possible for fuel was necessary.

RESEARCH FACILITIES

More Intensive Study Of Industrial Use Of Farm Crops

EDMONTON.—Extension of facilities in western Canada for more intensive study of industrial use of agricultural crops is being planned, it was announced here by Hon. James A. MacKinnon, federal minister of trade and commerce.

The western regional committee of the National Research Council meeting in Saskatoon in November, he recalled, had recommended a western unit of the council be established at one of the prairie centres in the prairie provinces as soon as possible.

Appropriations for this purpose are being arranged," Mr. MacKinnon said.

OUTPUT DROPS

STOCKHOLM.—The Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet, quoting SA (Storm Troop) operational quarters, said German fighter plane production dropped from a peak of 1,200 in April to 700 in October. Seven of the 12 main assembly plants were reported to have been destroyed by Allied bombings.

SAYS DOMINIONS MUST PLAY A MORE IMPORTANT ROLE IN THE AFFAIRS OF THE EMPIRE

LONDON.—Abolition of some units of the empire's colonial system and grouping of others "to tidy up the show," with the dominions playing a larger role in the colonies' guardianship, has been suggested by Prime Minister Jan Christian Smuts of South Africa.

The commons debate was initiated on an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne regretting that an imperial conference had not yet been arranged. The amendment, moved by Sir Alfred Beit, Conservative, was withdrawn when the house adjourned after the debate.

Both Sir Alfred Beit and Sir Geoffrey Shakespeare, a former parliamentary undersecretary to the dominions office, endorsed the idea of empire regional councils.

"Britain no longer can shoulder the burden of globular empire defense," Sir Alfred said in moving the amendment. "Canada will finish the war with the (world's) fourth largest air force, if not the fourth armed power, and it is quite clear she must be prepared to take her share of responsibility in maintaining the peace of the Atlantic and Pacific."

Calling for an ambitious scheme of immigration, he said immigrants to the dominions have come from European countries since Britain could not supply the vast populations needed.

Replying for the government, P. V. Emrys-Evans, dominion's undersecretary, said it was clear that the dominions required a different kind of settler than in the past—skilled laborers to develop secondary industries instead of agricultural emigrants.

Emrys-Evans detailed the part the dominions are playing in the war and said Canada's financial contribution relieved the British taxpayer of nearly £1,000,000 (about $4,500,000) a day.

On the special question of empire consultation, he suggested one way to improve the system might be annual meetings of ministers of external affairs. He said they might possibly meet once a year before meetings of the new international organization which it is contemplated will be set up after the war."

AIR ACE RETIRES

Raymond Collishaw Holds Rank Of Air Vice-Marshal

LONDON.—Air Commodore Raymond Collishaw, famous Canadian fighter of the last war and commander of R.A.F. units in the western desert offensive in this war, has retired with the rank of air vice-marshal, the London Gazette announced.

Collishaw, 48-year-old native of Nanaimo, B.C., shot down 60 enemy planes in the First Great War. Among Canadian pilots only Air Marshal W. A. (Billy) Bishop, V.C., and the late Capt. W. G. Barker outranked him in this respect. He was among the first six most successful pilots of that war.

For the past year, following his transfer back from the Middle East, Collishaw has held an important but undisclosed post in the R.A.F. in Britain.

Following the close of the First Great War Collishaw remained in the R.A.F. serving at many stations in the Middle East.

SPECIAL SERVICES

Physically Handicapped Workers Will Be Placed Through New Department

OTTAWA.—Employment and selective service offices in many centres shortly will open "special services sections" specializing particularly in placement of workers who are physically handicapped through war service or civilian accidents. Labor Minister Mitchell announced.

Experts in this line of placement work will soon be appointed to the offices in Moncton, N.B., Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, said the statement.

POWERFUL FUEL

New Super-Fuel Is Being Produced In Nova Scotia

DARTMOUTH, N.S.—"Triplane," a new super-fuel so powerful no engine has yet been designed to use it full strength, is being produced by Imperial Oil, Ltd., at an estimated cost of $1 a gallon, Charles Scrymgeour, general superintendent of the company's plant here, told a service club here.

Mr. Scrymgeour said the fuel is blended with high octane aviation gasoline, producing "remarkable" exra power."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Let There Be Light

The Christmas shopping season is now getting into its stride and local citizens as well as a number from other Pass towns are to be seen frequenting local stores.

One point many of the local merchants are falling down on at the present time is flooding their windows with light in the evenings. They have their windows dressed for the Christmas season so why not give them all the publicity possible with bright light? The other night only the drug store, the electrical store and one hardware had their lights on, the other business houses, with the exception of hotels, restaurants and pool rooms, were in darkness and window shoppers were unable to walk in leisurely manner from store window to store window. Let's have brightly lighted windows from now till Christmas.

War Christmas

In this, the fifth year of war, Santa Claus has been sadly taxed to turn out suitable Christmas toys. True he has done his best to build wooden tanks and trucks, but they lack the mobility of the metal machines of past years. The wooden train has no clockwork mechanism and lacks the streamlined mobility of electric trains.

Dad and Mom have one advantage, however. Many little youngsters have been brought into a war torn world and have never enjoyed the experience of mechanical toys and, therefore, do not miss them. A battered express wagon is easily converted into a tank, a jeep or air transport.

Miners Force Doctor Issue

Why must the authorities governing the distribution of medical men in the province have their hand forced before they will condescend to take notice of a community's plight and have a doctor sent to take up a practice.

Last week 500 miners in Bellevue stopped work for a short period in protest against being unable to get a doctor to look after themselves and families. Shortly after a doctor arrived on the scene. Their protest was successful.

The same action was taken by Coleman miners last year. They, too, were successful in securing a much-needed doctor.

In each case a doctor was made available in a matter of hours. Surely when doctors can so quickly be rushed to the scene there is no need for the authorities to have their hand forced before they will act.

Is The Province in the Bootlegging Business?

Serious charges are being directed at the Alberta Liquor Control Board, whose business it is to regulate the liquor traffic in this province. Right here in Coleman many have been outspoken in their condemnation of the powers that be who doctor the liquor in Edmonton.

Among charges heard are that too much water is being mixed with certain brands, another that some bottles contain less liquor now than in past years. There are a number of others.

That there are reason for those charges we do not doubt. Those making them have been buying their favorite brands for years and should certainly know when the brand becomes inferior to past years. One irate customer remarked that his bottle of rum was half molasses and half water. This is stretching the point a little. There are too many complaining against the grade of liquor today. The Liquor Control Board should do a little explaining.

Include A Journal Subscription With Your Xmas Present

It is surprising how much the home town paper is looked for by those boys in the armed forces or former Coleman friends now residing at distant points.

To us at home some news items appearing in the paper are known before the paper is published. Not so to those away from home, however.

The home town newspaper has items about familiar names and places. It records the progress of the town each week and is really a news letter from home. The ordinary letter couldn't possibly list all the news happening in the old Home Town as does the Journal.

Include a Journal subscription this year among the presents to send that boy or girl in the Forces or to some former Coleman friend who now resides far distant. It will be a regular weekly visitor and one that most assuredly will be appreciated.

Fighting Canada's Battles In Northern Manitoba And Saskatchewan Bushlands

An interesting story of the great Flin Flon Mine.

Eligible After Two Years' Service

Employees are eligible for participation in the retirement plan after they have had two years of continuous service and have become registered as permanently on the payroll; payment of annuities begins at age 65 in the case of men and at age 60 in the case of women. If an employee leaves before completing ten years of service he has three options: he may continue to deposit further premiums, he may allow the contract to stand as a paid-up annuity to mature at the retirement age, or he may have his own contributions mature as an immediate annuity, actuarially adjusted. After ten years' service and within ten years of normal retirement date, the employee has a vested right in the Company's contributions, as well as his own and may elect either to have the total of such contributions as an immediate annuity, actuarially adjusted; to deposit further premiums; or to allow the contract to stand as a paid-up annuity until the original maturity date.

In the event of an employee's death to $1,000 for single employees, or $1,200 for married employees, and a further $100 is added in the case of each dependent child, not exceeding three, under nineteen years of age. No medical examination is required and the insurance is payable to the beneficiary named by the employee.

The Company has been a leader in many plans to provide better working conditions for its employees. In 1937 it instituted a plan of holidays with pay; after two years' service the employee is entitled to a week's vacation with pay, and for every succeeding year a day is added until two weeks are reached. Apprenticeship courses were first inaugurated in 1932 and have since been expanded.

Twelve Courses For Apprentices

The apprenticeship plan for sons of employees deserves some special mention. Parents recognize its value because it solves the problem of what to do with a boy when the time approaches for him to think about earning his own living. Most small towns offer a bright lad only a small variety of employments, but at Flin Flon he has the choice of the following apprenticeship courses: blacksmith, boiler maker, carpenter, electrical, special turners, fitters, boiler makers, linemen, and steel erectors. The apprentice is required to attend special classes in mathematics, draughting, and subjects pertaining to the trade he is training in. Upon completion of his course he receives a bonus of $50.

Horrors Of War

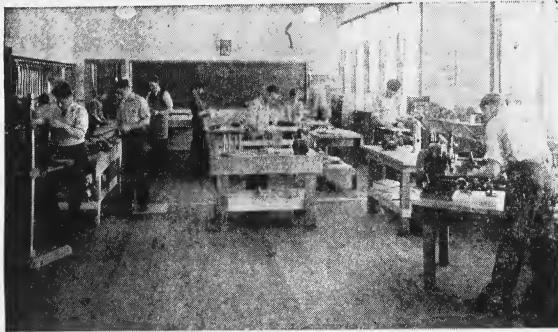

People Who Made Conflict Possible Now Learning What War Means

There is little disposition to gloat over the sufferings of the people of Berlin, but there is here and no doubt everywhere in Allied countries a grim satisfaction that the people who made this ghastly war are learning at first hand what modern war, German-style, means.

For the past century all Germany's wars of conquest, until this one, had been fought on the soil of other countries, and the German people had grown up to believe they were immune to the horrors they inflicted eagerly upon their neighbors. And even this war, in its earlier stages, for the Germans meant silk stockings from Paris, hams from Denmark, cheese from Holland, a shower of loot from half of Europe. They were sure—hadn't Hitler told them so?—that the war would end with a larger and stronger Germany, and the German conscience gave never a twinge—Ottawa Journal.

before he has accumulated ten years' service with the Company, all of his own contributions with 4% interest compounded annually, are paid immediately to his beneficiary or estate. After ten years' service the Company's contributions as well as his own, plus 4% interest compounded annually, are paid immediately to his beneficiary or estate by the Dominion Government Annuities Branch. Every employee member of the plan retiring at the normal retirement date, receives a monthly pension commencing one month after his retirement and continuing until his death. Should an employee, who accepts the normal retirement annuity, die after the commencement of his annuity and before 120 monthly instalments have been paid by the Government, the remainder of such guaranteed instalments are paid to his beneficiary or estate as they become due.

Pension Plans And Group Insurance

The Company contributions to the pension fund, which on the average are equal to that of the employees' contributions, are never returned. Once the payments are made to the Annuities Branch of the Dominion Government, they must be used for the benefit of the plan. This guarantees that all employee contributions will have the benefit of the Company contributions under the provisions of the plan.

The estate also receives group life insurance benefits. All new employees become eligible for life insurance under the group life plan immediately upon starting work for the Company, and during a probationary period of two years are covered in the amount of $500. The amount is raised then trician, foundry worker, machinist, mill operator, smelter operator, steam fitter, tinsmith, welder, and zinc plant operator. Thus the boys are given an opportunity of learning a trade of their own choosing, and because apprentices are paid a working wage from the date of commencement of the course, they are practically self-supporting from that date.

At Flin Flon, the apprenticeship courses are laid out to occupy four years, and include both classroom work and practical work. To qualify, a lad in addition to being the son of an employee, must be between 16 and 18 years old and must have a good school record, preferably high school. The town high school is particularly well equipped to give preliminary training.

Boys Earn While They Learn

The young apprentice is paid from the day he starts his course at a rate of $2.56 per day, plus cost of living bonus during the first six months, with increases every six months so long as he continues to do satisfactory work. He gets two weeks' holiday without pay in each of the first two years, and thereafter he receives the benefits of the Company's holidays-with-pay plan. On the completion of his course he is given a bonus of $100, and if his skill is good he is offered a job in his trade by the Company, but is free to go anywhere else if he chooses.

In consequence of war necessities the Company now offers special apprenticeship courses to certain selected employees who have proved their worth and are desirous of learning special trades. The courses last two years, and cover the following

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

DECEMBER 12

CHRIST'S NEW COMMANDMENT

Golden text: A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another; even as I have loved you, that ye also love one another. John 13:34.

Lesson: Mark 12:28-34; John 13:34, 35; 15:10-14.

Explanations and Comments: Christ's New Commandment.

Mark 12:28-34. It is Tuesday of Holy Week. Plotters against his life have come to Jesus in the temple enclosure to propound their questions by which they hope to ensnare him. The first question is relative to the payment of tribute, verse 13. The next concern is the resurrection, verses 18-21. It would seem from Jesus' commandment in verse 34 of our text that the scribe who came and, after being asked a question, asked an answer, was an honest inquirer, with no ulterior motive. He really wanted to know what was the ultimate motive guiding the religious life.

Jesus answered by quoting from Deuteronomy the commandment that calls upon one to love God with every power he has given man, and coupling with it a second commandment that calls for love of one's neighbor. The first commandment is given in De. 6, 4, and the second in Lev. 19, 18. Jesus brought them together, showed that one is the complement of the other.

An obscure saying in the book of Leviticus perhaps the most obscure, the dreariest and detailed exposition of legal requirements now dead and gone—the Master lifted out and set as a gem. Since that time no one has been able to separate the two commandments. What God hath joined together man must not put asunder.

Jesus' answer to the scribe was that the two commandments were not original with Jesus critics have cited as a reason for undervaluing his word.

With great conviction the scribe returned: "Of a truth, Teacher, thou hast said the Greek word is beautifully said; that he is one; and there is none other but he; and to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbor as himself, is much more than all whole burnt-offerings and sacrifices, that is more than the whole Levitical ritual."

Jesus saw that he answered discreetly, that is, wisely, understandingly. He had not only accepted Jesus' answer, but had also agreed that to keep moral obligations is far more important than to observe forms of worship. "Thou art not far from the kingdom of God," said Jesus. No other questions were put forward by his enemies; they were consciously defeated.

Danish Ships

208 Are Now Engaged In The British Service

Two hundred and three Danish ships in the British service were seized in prize. Their value has been estimated at $29,990,400. Since the invasion of Denmark, they have continued to sail with a large number of their original crews. The Danish ships were requisitioned by the Ministry of War Transport on the understanding that although seized in prize, they would be returned at the end of the war, and the owners paid a hire fee proportionate to the fee paid to British owners for similar ships.

Weapon For Victory

Edward Stettinius Writes A Book On

Lend-Lease

The story of Lend-Lease as seen by its former administrator in the United States, Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., is to be told in a book, "Lend-Lease: Weapon for Victory."

Mr. Stettinius' informal narrative is designed to be a global story. For instance, Canadian and American air-training schools assisted by Lend-Lease are open to thousands of Allied student pilots. But he has not forgotten that Lend-Lease works in reverse also, as in the case of repairs to United States warships carried out in Allied shipyards in the British Isles, the Middle East, India, Australia and New Zealand.

All royalties from the book will be payable to a charitable organization named by its author.

OUR COMPLETE
SHORT STORY—
YOUTH'S RETURN
By JEAN CAMERON
McClure Newspaper Syndicate

He plodded slowly along the gravel walk, his eyes never glancing at the bright flowers set so neatly in their plots, the green of the small vegetable gardens, the clean stones of the little thresholds. The houses were becoming more numerous now; soon he would reach the village. The bridge lay just on the other side.

Shifting his hiker's bag to his left shoulder, he walked with his head down, for he could have found his way blindfolded—he did not need to look. His instructions had been to start ten miles from the village, and he was quite tired, but it was not fatigue that caused the deep pain in his heart.

Fifteen years! He could hardly believe it. Apparently things had not changed at all. He could have sworn that the carts and wagons that passed him, pulled by horses and an occasional dog, were the same in which he had ridden so often in the past. The fences were the same; the cloud of dust at the summit of the hill was the same. He paused there, at the top, and stared at the village just ahead of him.

He returned to the people who had taken him in when his nation was starving, fed him clothed him, sent him to their schools—how else could he have spoken their language so well?—made him one of them. He would notice the fortifications at the bridge, the guards—how often and when they changed, how many there were, any slight difference in their uniforms—then tramp back and make his report, as so many others were doing. No one knew; no one guessed. The value of the whole scheme lay in its surprise element; if they knew, if they learned, perhaps the whole idea would be abandoned. If he told—if he ran down to the village and cried, "Don't you remember me? I am the little boy who lived here fifteen years ago, come back in treachery"

His head went up; his jaw stiffened. This was his duty. He would obey orders, think of them what he might. He was no longer a person; he was a soldier acting under command. He strode on steadily.

But he was glad—ah, but he was glad—that George and Martha were dead. He could never have borne the pain of coming back if they were here, of betraying them. George had been to him like the father he had never seen, and Martha, with her gingerbread, her warm smile, her work-hardened hands, had been like his own mother. They had wept bitterly when the four years of his stay had ended, had written to him and then, suddenly both were dead. He had wept, too, when he received that letter.

He must be careful not to look at the little cottage. It might unnerve him, make him think of what it would look like afterwards when the plan he was helping succeeded. The new tenants, no doubt, had different plots in the garden. There might be different curtains at the windows. But the old trees would be the same. A new dog would nose about. He sighed. How he had loved old Rex, the lumbering water spaniel. They had spent many hours playing together in the yard and down by the canal.

He was in the centre of the little town now. The chatter of the women, the open markets, the bustle of the little shops, were all familiar to him. They made a far happier, gayer sound than the noises in his own city. No one noticed him. Hikers were a common sight here. A girl sometimes threw a quick glance at him, then figure, nudged her companion and giggled. Women, laden with bundles, sometimes apologized pleasantly for bumping into him. He paused for a moment, stepped down a side street to gaze at the square. There could be no harm in reclining for just a moment, the old days. He was perfectly safe; no one "knew" him, and he spoke the language like a native.

The rumble of the wagons over the cobbled street drowned out the soft whine behind the fence on which he leaned. He did not notice the black mass of hair that waddled through the gate and threw itself on him, until it was licking at his shoes. "Rex!" he exclaimed. He bent, put a gentle hand on the old dog's head. It could not be—he had been an old dog then. The spaniel whined louder, gave feeble barks. A woman, smiling and wiping her hands on a spotless apron, ran out.

"He is very old," she said, "you
